

PARASKEVOULA MAMOUNAS

Ms. Mamounas joined Thomas, Thomas & Hafer, LLP in December 2013. She is currently practicing general liability law.

While at Brooklyn Law School, Ms. Mamounas participated in a summer study abroad program through Temple Law School, which led to a summer internship with the United States State Department at the American Consulate in Greece. As a law student, she also interned for a New York Supreme Court Civil Judge and a Federal Judge for the United States Court of International Trade.

Following law school, Ms. Mamounas began her legal career in New York City practicing civil litigation for several years which included defending various landlords and business owners in premises liability cases. In 2007, after moving to Pennsylvania, she resumed practicing civil litigation at a local Lehigh Valley firm until joining Thomas, Thomas & Hafer, LLP.
